Effective Toilet Training for Young Children
with ASD and Other Developmental Disabilities

Course Description:

Toilet training is a skill that, once learned, greatly improves the independence and quality of life of the individual. This workshop will introduce the audience to reinforcement based techniques for increasing appropriate toileting. Topics will include both urination training and bowel training. Teaching effective communication skills will also be discussed. The procedures that will be discussed have been shown to be appropriate for use with individuals of any age and level of disability. Effectiveness will be displayed through case studies and treatment data. Staff and parent training will be emphasized.

Who Should Attend? This workshop includes content appropriate for BCBAs, junior BCBAs, senior BCBAs and for other professionals working with individuals with autism and other developmental disabilities.

Learning Objectives – Upon completion, Participants will be able to:

- ❖ Conduct an assessment of toilet training issues and needs.
- ❖ Design and implement an effective urination training intervention.
- ❖ Design and implement an effective bowel training intervention.
- ❖ Collect data in order to make data based treatment decisions.
